Rips – look like
flatter water
with breaking
waves on either side. The flat
water may look
as if it is moving
away from the shore.

Currents – lmove
left or right in the ocean or creek
and you can see
the water moving.
However the wind
can sometimes
change how this
looks so the best way to check for a
current is to use a
stick or something
that floats to
check the water
direction.

Dark water –
usually indicates a
steep drop off
